VARSITY ATHLETES

It begins to look as though the state schools who have been carrying on the championship in basketball for the less few years, and who are said to look upon the state university team as out of the running, are going to be branded a surprise when the season opens in January. This is the first year that a varsity team has ever been put in at the U, and for this reason they are being doped as easy money. Warning comes from the onat bench people, however, that this is not the case, but that all of the schools will have to be going some to get the ball in the basket oftener than the university mon, who average over six feet in height and who are known as the varsity giants.

CONVILL GETS OFFER TO PLAY WITH MULTNOMAH

Captain "Dad" Convill of the university football team has received a most flattering offer to go to Portland and play with the Multoomah Athletic club, an amateur organisation in that city, on New Year's day. They are to go up against the strong Olympian team of Frisco, and have offered Convill his expenses to come up and play fullback. Convill is undecided as to whether he will take the trip. He graduates this year and has been counting on the holiday period to catch up in his work. It is possible that he will so, but said last evening that he didn't think it probable. The amateur standing of the teams would make it possible for "Dad" to play without effecting in any way his present standing, and the matter of time is the only thing that stands in his way.

May Get McAllister.

May Get McAllister.

Coach Maddock is not overlooking any bets for next year's track team, and is already lining up his men for special events. A strong addition to the track team will be the appearance of McAllister in the sprints. McAllister has represented the L. D. S. in track events and expects to finish his education at the university. Being a natural born athlete it will be impossible to keep him from the scholastic sports. Brinton and McAllister will be a hard combination to beat,
